Our Da Vinci's Designs event encourages teams to get a little bit creative. But don't worry, even if you aren't a budding artist, this event is still great fun! Creativity, teamwork and communication come together in this artistic team building challenge.

The aim of the event is to create a piece of collaborative artwork that everyone has contributed to. Because the end product is a result of effective communication, the power of teamwork is clearly illustrated – pun intended...

The aim is for everyone to contribute a section to a huge Da Vinci classic. Splitting the group into pairs we give each pair a canvas on which they replicate a section of the complete painting.

Every pair needs to be aware of the progress of the others and communication is essential for a cohesive result. In a grand finale, all the individual canvases are put together and your giant masterpiece is revealed. The end result is always impressive, with everybody pleasantly surprised with what they have managed to create together.

This is one of our most relaxed events, encouraging collaborative teamwork without competition. Some groups have enjoyed the event so much that they have hung the canvases back at work!

This event can be run from almost any venue, whether a hotel or your offices. There is no need to worry about making a mess though; we cover all surfaces to protect them from any Jackson Pollocks amongst you...
